Te Whatu Ora - Health NZ*

Te Whatu Ora established the Digital Enablement Programme to support health providers develop innovative digital services and technology for people to access health services.

Join us for an insightful webinar where Moderators, Sarona Iosefa and Karen Ellis will introduce two of the successful programs.

DIGIFALE - Amio Matenga Ikihele, Moana Connect

DIGIFALE is a digital health equity programme that helps Pacific communities navigate digital platforms to improve their health and wellbeing. The services provides devices and connectivity, and uses intergenerational grassroots community engagement to give community the skills and confidence to use new digital technology.

Evolko; Te huri i te whakaharatau (Changing the way we Practice)

- Dr Mohan Gaddipati & Dr.Sreekanth Konda

Based in Central Hawke's Bay, Dr Gaddipati has teamed up with Evolko Inc USA , who developed a patient monitoring app which uses artificial intelligence to lead patients through a series of questions for initial triage. Digital pre-consultaion can significantly reduce duration of medical examination and increase available medical times hence improving access to GP services especially in rural settings. A wide range of use cases are being tested including whanau consults, palliative care, long-term conditions and injuries.
